Barcelona, 27 September 2012

Norbert Dentressangle, the global logistics operator specialised in logistical services, land transportation and pallet distribution both nationally and internationally, unveiled a new distribution platform in Seville on the 15th of September.

The new facility is in the same place as the former warehouse, at ZAL Sevilla, a multimodal park that forms part of the Saba Parques Logísticos network. Situated in the port area, it has a strategic location within Seville, the provincial capital, with easy access to the SE30 motorway.

In the last four years, the Norbert Dentressangle Seville branch has seen more than a 50% growth in sales. Its facility improvements will be well suited to current volumes of activity and will allow for higher growth, which is foreseen for the next few years. In turn, this will allow Norbert Dentressangle to progress further in Andalusia, where it has been present, primarily in the provinces of Seville and Córdoba, for fifteen years

The new distribution platform has a surface area of 4,000 square metres – which can be expanded to 8,000 square metres – and an office area that stretches across 200 square metres. At each façade, 10 loading and unloading bays for trailers and 10 for pick-up and drop-off vehicles have been fitted. In total there are 20 bays opposite each other, to optimise cross-docking operations and improve agility and flexibility. In addition, the new platform has two access ramps and is equipped with the most up-to-date technology: radiofrequency systems and a warehouse administration system (ULTIMA).

In the new warehouse, activities in logistics, pallet distribution, groupage and national and international full load will be carried out. From Seville, Norbert Dentressangle offers its entire range of transport services and, to accommodate this, has 20 pick-up and drop-off vehicles, 12 incoming and 10 outgoing pallet shuttles, and a vehicle fleet for groupage and national and international full load transport.
